AERA Publications

Educational Researcher (nine issues annually): Contains scholarly articles of general significance in educational research, news and comments, and essay book reviews. Its primary purpose is to provide for the timely and detailed reporting and analysis of important events in educational research.

American Educational Research Journal (quarterly): Publishes original reports of all forms of scholarly inquiry on a broad range of topics. It consists of two sections: "Social and Institutional Analysis" and "Teaching, Learning, and Human Development."

Review of Educational Research (quarterly): Presents critical, integrative reviews of educational research. Studies from other disciplines are included if they bear on educational issues.

Journal of Educational and Behavioral Statistics (quarterly): Demonstrates, primarily through concrete examples, how the educational statistician can contribute to sound, productive, and creative decision making in educational practice.

Educational Evaluation and Policy Analysis (quarterly): Provides educational evaluation and educational policy analysis (emphasizing practical as well as theoretical and methodological issues) and examines the relationship between these two activities.

Review of Research in Education (annual): Provides an overview and descriptive analysis of selected areas of relevant research through critical and synthesizing essays.

AERA Journal Archive Subscription (JSTOR)

Online access to the AERA journal archive is available only to members at the low subscription price of $40 a year. Access is available to all six AERA journals through JSTOR from their inception up until five volume years prior to the current year.
